Mediform Business Model

Our objective was to simplify uniform sourcing for healthcare professionals. We wanted to provide healthcare facilities with an easy way to outfit their entire workforce with high quality, well-stitched uniforms that are affordable and readily available - and thus came about our business model!

We custom-develop the fabrics that we use in our uniforms, keeping in mind the end-use. Our fabric colours are carefully chosen so that a wide spectrum is available for the healthcare facility to choose from, keeping in mind their logo colours or the hospital interiors.

We don't just stock fabrics, we stock the finished uniform - so that you can pick not just whichever style and colour you want, but also whenever you want. Our standardized sizing chart ensures that everyone finds their fit.

Our manufacturing unit has been configured to run on assembly line stitching, thereby increasing productivity and keeping costs under control. Because great quality and prompt delivery should not translate into unaffordable costs!

Scrub Suits

Why is it called scrub suit?

Scrubs. ... Scrubs get their name from when hospital staff sterilise themselves before surgery, a process called “scrubbing in”.

What do scrubs colors mean?

The answer is simple – to differentiate between different departments within the hospital, especially in a large hospital. It is easier for the other doctors, nurses, physicians and so on....

You typically see surgeons in the green or blue scrubs, and nurses that deal with infants in pink.
